

RESEARCH PARTICIPANTS WANTED!

Drexel University is conducting a research study examining
Stress and outcomes in caregivers for those with acquired brain injury
“An updated model of perceived stress in caregivers for acquired brain injury”

IF YOU ARE:

- Over the age of 18
- The primary caregiver for someone with a brain injury

You may be eligible to participate

YOU SHOULD KNOW:

- Participation in this study will not affect your employment status.
- All results are confidential
- This research is conducted by a researcher who is a member of Drexel University

WHAT WILL YOU DO?

- Complete surveys online pertaining to:

-sensitive physical and mental health questions
-your loved one’s functioning
-your resources and responses to stress

- These take approximately 20-40 minutes to complete

HOW TO PARTICIPATE:

Study enrollment and procedures are conducted through a secure online survey (available via URL and QR code):

<https://redcap.link/odxcdlnj>

